“In a nutshell, people ask me to do what I am best at for them...

I Teach them how to GET RESULTS ONLINE! ”

Paul has thousands of followers on Twitter, Facebook and Youtube – for one very simple reason – he KNOWS what he’s talking about, and can say it in a way that others understand.

About Paul Barrs

Paul Barrs started his first website in 1998. Back then there was no ‘help’ and everything had to be learnt hands-on. These days it’s entirely different – there are workshops, seminars, ebooks and videos. It seems that everyone is teaching things online.

Few however, have the experience and success that Paul does. Starting at just 14 years of age he began on stage in the theatre developing incredible stage presence. Over the years he performed literally thousands of times in three different countries; including one amazing presentation in front of selected delegates at the United Nations building in New York in 1988. ‘Stage Fright’ isn’t a term Paul’s familiar with.

In the mid-90’s Paul turned his attention to retail management with major companies like Pizza Hut and Woolworths... although it wasn’t long before he found himself once again ‘in front of the crowd’ and became responsible for staff training.

As the years passed Paul shifted his focus to small business and sales management after moving interstate. He alone has been responsible for millions of dollars in sales for various companies while working for others, and now as a self-employed Internet Business Trainer, probably tens of millions for his clients and coaching students.

Over the last 15 years Paul has published nearly a dozen eBooks, some of which have been downloaded over 100,000 times! He has published over two dozen online coaching programs (with over 400 videos and audios between them) which have been purchased, downloaded or shared by thousands of people in over 100 different countries worldwide... – not bad considering they’re all in English!
